WE NOMINATE

William Merritt Beaney, 41-year old political scientist and chairman of Princeton University's Department of Politics, who continues to "climb into orbit" as one of this country's rising authorities in the broad area of constitutional law. At a point in time when the "Solid South," and splinter sections of the North, are apparently convinced that the Supreme Court has taken matters into its own hands in its reasoned advocacy of racial integration, Beaney is strengthening a Princeton tradition deriving its continuity from Woodrow Wilson, William F. Willoughby, Edward S. Corwin and, more recently, Alpheus T. Mason, biographer of Justices Brandeis and Stone.

In collaboration with the last-named, the fourth distinguished teacher-scholar to hold the professorship created for Wilson in the 1890's, Beaney has recently brought forth "The Supreme Court in a Free Society," a thoughtful work lambasted by some critics and welcomed by others. Although dubbed a "useful constitutional primer" that in the opinion of the same newspaperman "often forgets the truth," it is the kind of thin (346 pages), readable volume which broadens the layman's understanding of the courts and drives home the point that the judiciary is a "forum wherein great public issues are exploded, debated, decided, but never finally resolved."

Beaney, whose wife, Patricia Daniels Beaney, is an outstanding teacher of mathematics in Princeton High School, has previously combined forces with Mason, co-authoring "American Constitutional Law," now in its second edition. A member of the bar since 1947 in Michigan, where he completed his legal training at the University of Michigan, he is also responsible for "The Right to Counsel in American Courts," a study and proposal for reform of the methods of providing legal aid for the indigent, and is currently completing an analysis of the procedures and individual rights involved in all stages of legal proceedings from arrest to trial.

An honor graduate of Harvard, and a Princetonian for the past 11 years, Beaney was catapaulted into his departmental chairmanship a year ago and this past winter became the central, quiet-spoken figure in the rhubarb revolving about the university status of author-teacher Otto Butz. En route to the professorship, he had been the first recipient of the Class of 1931 Preceptorship, had served three years as an associate professor, had utilized a year's leave to relate the effects of major economic depressions to the legal system, and had been largely responsible for the development and innovation of several courses, including one dissecting the expansion of presidential power and the increasing complexity of White House responsibilities.

Beaney, a native of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and, following World War II service as an infantryman, still active in the miniscule strategic intelligence element of the U.S. Army Reserves, is a consultant to the American Bar Foundation's study of the administration of criminal justice in this country. He also holds forth as an adviser to the New Jersey Law Revision Commission, a continuing service agency for the State Legislature.

For combining thorough training in the law with a devotion to the paradoxes of political science; for major contributions in the public's understanding of all that is connoted by "The Judicial Process;" for understanding that American constitutional law is anything but a "closed system"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

MULTIPLE HOUSING

Report Is Released. "Multiple housing" is one of those terms that engineers, architects and zoning experts have invented to make a simple thing sound complex. What does the term mean? A development of 50 houses? A cluster of public housing units? Something to do with urban renewal?

"Multiple housing" means "apartments," and Princeton Township residents found out this week what the Planning Board's Committee on Multiple Housing has to say about the possibility of apartment buildings in their municipality.

In a report which has been awaited for a year or more, the Committee under Dr. Walton Van Winkle, Jr. announced the results of its lengthy deliberations—and thoughtfully includes a minority report. The report and its numerous appendices may be examined at the office of the Township Zoning Officer in the Township Garage. A public hearing will be held in Township Hall on Wednesday, April 13 at 8 p.m.

"We Recommend." To begin with, the Multiple Housing Committee does not feel that the Township should provide apartments for people working in large metropolitan centers who might feel that Princeton "is a nice place to live." The whole focus of the report is on housing for people who work in or near Princeton, and for those who are referred to as "old time, or legitimate residents."

The recommendation that limited provisions for apartments should be made in the zoning laws is based on a survey which the Committee took among business and educational organizations in this area. Also, the Committee felt that new rateables might be attracted to Princeton if there were sufficient apartments.

The Committee recommends two-story garden apartments in "very few" areas. No multiple housing would be permitted on any tract smaller than ten acres. In actual fact, the report recommends only two areas as suitable for multiple housing.

The first—and the one preferred by the Committee—is defined by a line which starts at Bayard and Leigh on the Township Borough boundary, runs north on Bayard to Mountain Avenue, west along Mountain for 400 feet, north to the creek bed and along the northern boundary of the Harrop tract east to Cherry Hill Road. Here the line goes south along the road to the intersection with Route 206, then east along the proposed extension of Terhune to Jefferson; down Jefferson to Valley Road, west along Valley to Harris Road; south along Harris to the Borough-Township line, and along the boundary to the beginning.

The second would be an area about 1000 feet wide next to the service zone in the northern part of the Township on both sides of Route 206.

Determining Factors. In selecting these two areas, the Committee was influenced by the following factors:

- Multiple housing can provide a logical transition between service and retail zones and single family zones.
- Those who want apartments are usually at an age when they want to be near stores, recreation areas and public transportation.
- Multiple housing zones should be near public water and sewers.
- Most people who want apartments want to live close to the center of the Borough.

Deeply concerned about density, the Committee recommends that all buildings in a multiple housing development be placed to provide free space, or buffer zones, so that apartments and private houses will not be side-by-side There should be no more than 12 dwelling units per acre and no apartment should have more than two bedrooms.

In its final recommendation, the Committee suggests that the Township draw up an ordinance permitting—and therefore, controlling, which it regards as most important—the conversion of old houses into small apartments.

"We Disagree." In a minority report signed by Kevin Kennedy, several unidentified members of the 12-man committee express their opposition to parts of the current findings.

The questionnaire on which much of the survey was based, was sent to 5,000 persons. Replies were received from 1,377.

Tha "H. C. of L." Again

As part of its Multiple Housing report "package," the Multiple Housing Committee in the Township includes a questionnaire filled out by the Personnel Office at RCA. It gives a sharp profile of the housing situation as it confronts the Bright Young Men who come to Princeton to seek career and fortune.

These men, most of them are married with one child, making between $7,000 and $10,000 a year. About half live in Princeton, 25 percent in Trenton, 16 percent in Pennsylvania, 10 percent in other New Jersey communities.

Three-quarters of them own a house, but many would prefer to rent if they could find a suitable, inexpensive place.

"If rents were within their means," the report states, "about 30 to 40 percent of those interested in renting would live in Princeton if they could obtain housing that was modern and up-to-date. What discourages employees in locating housing in Princeton is the lack of accommodations, the old-fashioned apartments that are available, the high cost of renting and the high cost of living in Princeton."

Of this number, four percent (54) suggested that they would be interested in living in the Township. (The question was phrased "more than one-half mile from the center of town: Nassau and Witherspoon Street"). The minority report says this does not represent a substantial demand for apartments in the Township.

Also, the minority points out that since most people who replied to the questionnaire said they wanted to live close to the center of the Borough, that Borough multiple housing would help solve the problem. The committee members also point out that the second area chosen by the majority —at the north end of the Township on Route 206—is far from the center of the Borough where people presumably want to live.

One of the chief concerns of the minority group is the matter of precedent and control. "Some members question the wisdom of continually changing the zoning laws. . .as the years progress. It is obvious that the intent of the original zoning plan was to try to keep Princeton Township a semi-rural residential area with single-family dwellings."

In addition, the minority report looks ahead ten years and comments "once a precedent is set, it will be hard to control, and pressures for additional multiple housing areas will grow as the entire area develops in population density."

PERSONALITIES

Lois Arlene Humber Smith, 15 University Place, whose standout performance (after 20 straight hours of acting for video tape) in "The Masterbuilders" drew high critical praise, will be followed this weekend by another featured TV appearance. A stage and television actress whose career is steadily moving upward, Mrs. Smith (wife of classics instructor, Dr. Wesley D. Smith) will star in Joseph Conrad's story, "Victory," Friday night at 8:30 on Channel 4.

Nassau Street School fourth-grader Raymond Ashton, 60 Harriet Drive, and only Princeton prize-winner in the annual Greater Trenton Science Fair which drew hundreds of entries from schools in central and southern New Jersey. When 9-year old Raymond (son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Ashton) won a blue ribbon with his exhibit, "The Microphone," he "evened the score" with brother Charles, 8, who had turned the trick in the same Fair a year ago.

John S. Wilson, Griggstown, jazz critic for The New York Times, a key witness in an unusual court case in Freehold, in which tavern owners brought suit against the town of Belmar which sought to prohibit them from playing jazz and permitting women to wear shorts after 7 p.m. Asked to assist the court in determining just what jazz is, Mr. Wilson commented that "nobody knows what jazz is. When they hear it, they know it. To the general public, it means any kind of non-classical music." (The court's decision: after 7 p.m., jazz, but no shorts.)

ROUND-UP

The wet month of March has been followed by early April precipitation that gave Princeton more than half the month's normal rainfall in the first five days . . . .better than two inches have been recorded to date, naturally closing Quaker Road because of high water in Stony Brook and sending the Millstone River over its banks at Kingston. . . .temperature fluctuation has been a good 35 degrees, from a low of 35 on Sunday to the high of 70 earlier in the week.

Topographic maps of Princeton Township, made by aerial survey last year, are now available at Township Hall. . . .It takes three 4x5 sheets to cover the municipality, and the cost is $7.50 apiece . . . .the survey, undertaken to help plan sewer construction, cost $3,000.

Township Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman is back at work after a week's hospitalization with a back ailment. . . .and Robert W. Heacock, 135 Bayard Lane, has been advanced to the rank of patrolman in the municipality after satisfactory completion of an 11-month probationary period and a ranking at the top of a police training class in Sea Girt.

The Princeton Adult School will hold its final session of the winter term this Thursday night, thus making up for the classes that were canceled on March 3 because of the eight-inch snowfall . . . .Borough police are content with an accident-free docket that dates back to March 25. . . the municipality has placed a new, larger and quieter garbage truck in operation . . .details of the May 2-7 Clean-Up Week will be announced next Thursday.

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, April 6, 1950: Princeton Township learned that it would have a fourth voting district (today it has nine) created from a part of the third, because election officials—still tabulating ballots by hand—had recently been at it until 2 a.m. . . .a primary race developed for Township Committeeman between Hugh D. Wise and B. L. Gulick, Jr., with outgoing committeeman B. Franklin Bunn backing Mr. Wise's candidacy. . . PMI announced that mounting costs of operation had resulted in a decision to charge 25 cents for "eight hours' time in its Hulfish Street lot, hitherto free.

Winner of the grand prize in the Eagles Egg Hunt was Martha Peabody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marsden Peabody, 257 Moore Street, who won a plane ride at Princeton Airport. . . . James M. Kopliner was an applicant for a vacancy on the Borough police force. . . .John D. Cashill was chairman of the committee planning the annual "novelty party" staged in St. Paul's auditorium by Princeton Engine Co. No. 1. . . .the Rev. Quitman F. Beckley, Catholic chaplain at Princeton University, was "Man of the Week," on the occasion of his fourth decade of service to the Roman Catholic Church.

The Playhouse was showing "Cheaper by the Dozen," the comedy based on the novel of the same name. . . at the Garden, it was Walt Disney's "Cinderella," while another form of entertainment on the Princeton scene was the YWCA's second international festival, "Windows on the World," scheduled to be given at Princeton High School.

In sports, Emerson Dickman, ex-Boston Red Sox pitcher, got the Tiger baseball team off to a good start with successive victories over Manhattan and C.C.N.Y. . . . .Bob Brawner, record-breaking swimmer whose specialty was the breaststroke, won the eastern and national intercollegiate titles as well as the AAU championship, beating the 1948 Olympic champion, Joe Verdeur, in the latter event . . .in business, the outlook brightened noticeably after a poor year in 1949, with the New Jersey Poll showing that 56 percent of the state populace felt optimistic about the outlook, compared to 32 percent a year ago. . . .the borough tax rate was set officially at 4.42—in contrast to the figure of 6.13 prevailing today.

SPY IN THE SKY: U. S. Government officials agreed this week that "Tiros," the weather satellite sent into orbit last Thursday as a meterological aid, may have the unexpected, added ability of photographing large ground objects. Here, Robert Schmicker of the RCA Astro-Electronic Division where the complex satellite was made, adjusts the interior assembly. Shaped in final form like a bass drum, "Tiros" is 42 inches in diameter, 19 inches high. (Story on page 4.)

A 'YES' VOTE, BUT....

On Fluoridation Resoluton. After a spirited and sometimes heated exchange of opinion, in which two "pros" on one side of the table shot their remarks to two "cons" on the other while Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman sat silently in the middle, Township Committee on Monday night voted "yes" on the fluoridation resolution, three to two. Mayor Fairman finally broke his silence to line up with the "pros."

The vote: William Marvel, John Mount and Mayor Fairman in favor, Stanley C. Smoyer and Thomas P. Cook against.

The resolution was amended to read: "Township Committee desires to express to the Princeton Water Company the recommendation of the Board of Health of the Township..." instead of "...Committee has the responsibility to express the will of the Township"

It was Mayor Fairman who brought the two opposing sides to a small piece of common ground when he said:

"As a Committeeman, you sometimes have to act differently from what you believe as a private person. I am concerned about the relationship between the Board of Health and Township Committee. We're passing this resolution in order to convey to the Princeton Water Company a strong recommendation by the Board of Health, which is legally constituted to make such a recommendation."

Mr. Smoyer said he agreed on that, and for a time it seemed that Commitee would merely tell the water company what the board of health wanted, and that the entire resolution with its supporting statements on the value of fluoridation would be discarded

"No," said Mayor Fairman, "we must actually endorse the position of the Board of Health, not just serve as mailman."

He said that any other action would be a vote of no-confidence. The above amendment was adopted, Mr. Cook abstaining, and the whole resolution finally adopted, three to two.

Verbal Clashes. But before this relatively harmonious close, Committee tilted lances at each other in a rare display of verbal combat.

"Township Committee has before it a matter of public health," Mr. Mount said (he came to the meeting with a case of mumps and Mr. Smoyer suggested with a smile that possibly Mr. Mount was a public health problem.) "I don't think a technical subject like this is a proper matter for referendum. It is not the job of the Princeton Water Company to dictate to Township Committee what it should do in matters of public health." (The water company has said it would like a referendum on fluoridation.)

"We can't tell a private water company how to run its business," Mr. Smoyer replied. "It's a question of whether we have the responsibility to impose our authority on private property and the water company is private."

"The idea that the Water Company would have the gall to dictate to us when to hold a referendum!" Mr. Mount exclaimed. "We can get the Public Utilities Commission to force them, if we pass a resolution and they won't act."

Mr. Smoyer asked Gordon Griffin, Township attorney, whether the company could be forced to fluoridate and Mr. Griffin said he did not know.

Cook vs. Marvel. Mr. Cook said he was voting "no" because "I believe that individual freedom of choice should be allowed to prevail. Personal liberty should be invaded only where an urgent public need justifies it."

"I am astounded," said Mr. Marvel, "that a lawyer should find the opinions of 10 courts an inadequate safeguard of personal liberty."

The Township resolution says in one section that courts in 10 states have held that fluoridation does not infringe on legal rights. Mr. Cook is a lawyer.

At one point in the debate, after a lengthy statement by Mr. Marvel on the hazards of having fluorine tablets around a house (Mr. Cook had suggested the tablets as an alternative to fluoride in the water), Mr. Smoyer said, "I suggest we invoke cloture."

"We didn't impose cloture on the people of Princeton during our public hearing," retorted Mr. Marvel, "and I don't see why we should on each other."

After the steam had cleared away and the vote been taken, Committee passed on first reading an ordinance to exchange rights of way so that there can be a road from Terhune to the Township's park near the Shopping Center. Joseph Nini, clerk, called for a vote.

"Yes," said Mr. Mount. "Yes," said Mr. Marvel, "Yes," said Mr. Fairman, "Yes," said Mr. Cook, "Yes," said Mr. Smoyer.

Said Mr. Nini: "Seems like old times."

RCA DESIGNED 'TIROS'

Satellite Built Here. Scientists at the Astro-Electronic Products Division of the Radio Corporation of America, Princeton-Heights-town Road, designed and built the new Tiros satellite that on Thursday began its circular orbit around the earth. (The name "Tiros" comes from the initial letters of the words "Television Infra-Red Observation Satellite.")

RCA officials have described the satellite as "the most elaborate electronics package yet sent into orbit around the earth." It contains miniature television cameras, video tape recorders, transmitters, solar cells and rechargeable batteries and complex control and communications equipment.

The complete system comprises the Tiros itself and a complex of ground installations which track it, work out a program for it to follow, direct its operations in orbit, and receive and process the weather data it sends back.

"Minitrack" stations in North and South America track the satellite and transmit data on its position to the Space Administration Computing Center in Washington. Here, scientists work out the programs they want "Tiros" to follow. The actual sequence of operation is then planned at the Goddard Space Flight Center, and transmitted to the two main ground stations, one at nearby Fort Monmouth and the other at Keena Point, Hawaii. (Two reserve stations are maintained at Cape Canaveral and at the Astro-Electronics laboratories in Princeton.)

Details of the program and the control functions connected with it are transmitted to the Tiros from either of these stations. The satellite's equipment then does what it has been told to do—take pictures of cloud formations and store the images on magnetic tape.

As Tiros' orbit brings it within range of a ground station, a command signal from the earth starts the playback of the taped information to receiving facilities at the ground station. Data is recorded for processing and study. Television pictures of cloud formations are displayed on a picture tube so that photographs can be taken of them. They are also recorded on a magnetic tape.

Those who took part in the development of Tiros are Sidney Sternberg, chief engineer of the Astro-Electronic Division, and engineering groups under Vernon D. Landon and Edwin A. Goldberg. Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom, one of the first scientists assigned to the Princeton laboratories by RCA, is head of the division, while Carl W. Zemke is manager of operation control.

What's the Good Word?

Hey, Tiros, up there
In the sky!
Can you see Spring
As you whirl by?

—ARTHUR MOMETER

Tiros, uncertain for the moment whether it liked its new name, "Spy in the Sky," was silent, contenting itself with sending back pictures of what it saw. The Weather Man, too, wasn't absolutely sure, but a look at the calendar brought an affirmative nod.

True, there were moments such as Wednesday morning's temperature dip to below freezing in the outlying areas, and a thermometer that thought in terms of 50 rather than 65. But a milder trend would set in Thursday, the Man reported, and might stay around for two or three days. Generally clear, what's more.

News Of The THEATRES

THE STYLE IS CLASSIC

For "Oedipus Rex." The new production of "Oedipus Rex," set to open in McCarter this Friday at 8:30 p.m., has been prepared in the classic style with music, costumes after the ancient mode and a nine-man acting and dancing chorus. This "Oedipus," which may also be seen on Saturday night, is a new translation of Sophocles' tragedy by C. A. Trypanis of the Institute for Advanced Study.

Karl Light will be seen in the role of Oedipus. Etienne Sturhahn will play Jocasta, Grenville Cuyler will be Tiresias and Theodore d'Arms will be Creon. Dr. Trypanis, who is serving as director of his own translation, has been working with Mrs. Samuel Keen whose choreography for the chorus employs ancient Greek postures interpreted in a modern manner.

The set, designed by Paul Glicklet of the class of 1962, depicts a Greek temple and an Attic countryside. Music, which fills in between speaking passages, has been composed by David del Tredici, graduate student at the University.

Tickets are available at the University Store for $1.50 to $3.50 with a 20 percent reduction for students.

"CLERAMBARD" COMING

To McCarter. "Clerambard," a frisky satire which illumines the hypocricies of modern morality, will be given in McCarter on Saturday, April 23.

One of the best-know off-Boardway plays of the past decade, Marcel Ayme's comedy draws its laughs from comments on present-day religion, sex mores, sentimentalism and—itself. Tickets for "Clerambard" are on sale at the University Store and may be reserved by calling WA 1-8700.

IT'S BERMAN

In McCarter. "All Sides of Shelley Berman" is a production which offers to Princeton citizens the opportunity to spend a full evening in the company of a monologuist who can be cab driver, acting teacher, dancing instructor and assistant - assistant manager of a drug store all in an evening. Berman will appear in McCarter Theater, April 22, with two performances, one at 7 p.m. and one at 9:20.

C-K Productions, under whose auspices he will appear, will also present on the same program the four Gateway Singers, a group of modern folk-song artists. They take old songs and give them the drive and beat of modern jazz, selecting their repertory from African rounds, songs of the French country-side, dance songs from Mexico or Israel and so on.

Tickets are available at the University Store or by mail from Box 591, Princeton. They are priced at $2.10, $2.95, $3.50 and $3.95.

CAST CHOSEN

For "Age of Anxiety". Georgine Hall, Emery Battis, William Harman and Jeffrey Moss have been chosen to head the cast of "Age of Anxiety," the Theater Intime production which will open at Murray Theater April 28. John Becker is directing the W. H. Auden work.

Georgine Hall is well known to Princeton audiences through Community Players and Theater Intime for whom she played Amanda in "The Glass Menagerie." She works extensively in television.

Mr. Battis was seen as The Statue in the Chapel Deacons' recent production of "Don Juan in Hell." A history teacher at Rutgers, he has worked with Margaret Webster in the American Repertoire Theater and he appeared in the Robeson production of "Othello."

Both Mr. Harman and Mr. Moss are undergraduates with extensive work in dramatic productions. Tickets for "Age of Anxiety" may be ordered by calling WAlnut 4-3539.

TWO BALLETS OFFERED

For Annual Production. "La Boite a Joujoux" and "Coppelia" will be danced this spring in Princeton when the Princeton Ballet Society gives its annual production. Performances will be given on Thursday afternoon, May 12 and Friday evening, May 13. The afternoon performance will be the Borough P.T.A.'s last offering in the current Children's Entertainment Series.

"La Boite a Joujoux" had been choreographed by Joyce Sichel, one of the Society's teachers, to music by Claude Debussy. The younger dancers will tell this story of a toy box in a toy shop, full of dolls that come to life.

Older members of The Ballet Society will dance to Leo Delibes' familiar music in a version of "Coppelia" choreographed by Audree Estey, director of the Society. Tickets for Thursday may be obtained from Mrs. R. H. Parmenter, 175 Hamilton Avenue and tickets for Friday may be obtained at the University Store after May 2.

PLAY, MUSIC OFFERED

Peter Cook in Intime Show. Peter Cook of Kingston, a member of the senior class at Princeton, will have a leading role in a one-act play to be offered next week by the Theatre Intime, undergraduate dramatic organization.

Cook will appear in a one-act play, "Escurial," by the Belgian author, Michel de Ghelderode. He was last seen in the Intime's production of "Ondine," and has also appeared with the Community Players.

Original compositions by Robert Morgan and Fred Rzewski, graduate students in the Department of Music, will also be a part of the program. It will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in Chancellor Green on campus, with the octagonal setting to be employed much like a theatre in-the-round.

THEY LIKED "SYCAMORE"

The Critics Did. Princeton producers David Sawyer, Stuart Duncan, Philip Minor and their colleague Hilary Lipsitz have scored a hit with their off-Broadway production, "Under the Sycamore Tree," the comedy satire by Sam Spewack. The play is being given at the Cricket Theater, Second Avenue and 10th Street, Sunday through Friday at 8:40, Saturday at 7 and 10 p.m. and Sundays at 3 and 8:40 p.m.

"It is constantly amusing," Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times, "The spectacle of a sample boy and girl learning to love is very funny. Mr. Spewack's is a very good-humored comedy." Richard Watts, Jr., of the New York Post, called the satire "The one satisfying new work . . . steadily entertaining."

"Sam Spewack's comedy was given an excellent production," said John McClain of the Journal American. "Delightfully witty, imaginative and adult," said Charles McHarry of the Daily News.

The play ran for 38 weeks in London and was subsequently given in Ireland, South Africa, Germany, Holland, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries.

DOCUMENTARY FILM DUE

Topic is South Africa. "Come Back, Africa," which will be screened at the Garden on April 18, records the facts of everyday life as it is lived by an African under South Africa's apartheid. The film will be shown at 3, 7 and 9:15 p.m. unde the auspices of Film Art Productions.

"Come Back, Africa," was filmed under the direction of Lionel Rogosin without the knowledge of South African officials. It is said to depict, simply and honestly, the conditions which led to the recent outbreaks.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Suddenly, Last Summer (April 7-12) is the illogical conclusion of all Tennessee Williams stories, and it turns out to be an unconscious parody by Williams of his own genre: clinical and traumatizing studies of neurotics and psychotics at leisure. When Williams' characters visit their birthplaces, they are invariably home and deranged. The stars of this one are Elizabeth Taylor, Montgomery Clift and Katharine Hepburn.

The plot is worth detailed recounting, just for the sheer humor of it. It involves a young, homosexual poet who has been wont to take his mother (Miss Hepburn) along to attract men for him during his pilgrimages to Europe to gather inspiration for his one poem a year. When Miss Hepburn grows too old to be of any value in this capacity, he switches to his cousin (Miss Taylor). On the trip with her he is fallen upon and summarily devoured by a group of urchins in a canabalistic revel. She returns home, driven insane by the spectacle, and Miss Hepburn suggests that a frontal lobotomy might be just what the doctor ordered. The doctor (Clift), however, decides to try something a little less drastic, and in the course of analysis the whole sordid story is brought out. This cures Miss Taylor, but unbalances Miss Hepburn as the closing theme begins.

It is in short, a 114-minute expansion of Peter DeVries' line, "Have I told you about my aberration?" and the acting throughout is pegged at the same comic level as the script. Leave the kiddies at home, but face up to the fact that you're going to have to tell them about Tennessee Wil-

HOW'RE YOU FEELING?

Hospital Shop Hopes "Fine". The Hospital Aid Shop at Princeton Hospital exists primarily for visitors who want a present to take to the friend with the broken leg. However, the Shop also provides sustenance for starving staff doctors who need a quick candy bar, time-passers for five-year old boys who resent tonsilectomies and morale boosters for clients of the maternity ward.

It is, quite seriously, one of the best Hospital shops anywhere, with an astounding variety of inexpensive little gifts, some useful, some deliciously useless. The variety and the turn-over are so great, as a matter of fact, that what we write about today may be gone by tomorrow. Don't say we didn't warn you.

At the moment, Easter toys are in the forefront. There's a yarn chick, an endearing duck made out of yellow rabbit fur (you know how purty those yellow rabbits are), a beanbag rabbit with a hand-painted expression, a very long-legged rabbit and innumerable foil - wrapped chocolate chickens, rabbits and so on.

Very young children will undoubtedly respond to a six-inch telephone which plays "Mary Had a Little Lamb" when you remove the receiver. Mothers will love a very small music box to hang on a crib. It plays Brahms' Lullaby. The first one is $3.79, the second is $2.25.

For children who can play "land of counterpane," there is a sport car with a saucy ponytailed doll driver, a Greyhound bus, something called an XX-2 rocket (hey, nurse! watch this one!), a police car and a well-mannered Japanese doll.

Jewelry in the Hospital Aid Shop is on the bright and cheerful side. Take a friend those gold crescent earrings with the tiny rhinestone in the center, the necklace of smoky "crystals," or the little circlet of rhinestones. Just for fun, why not buy the pill box shaped like a scallop's shell, or the chain that helps a convalescent pull up her back zipper?

Colognes by Hattie Carnegie or Jean Nate would refresh and revive, and so would a pink hospital gown in a box which says "Look Who's Getting All the Attention—You in this Wonderful Gown!" ($4.50)

Magic for MD's

We don't know why those little bracelets with dangling figures are called "charm bracelets; maybe it's because they are designed to charm away the evil spirits. If that's the case, the bracelet we saw the other day has a peculiar and individual right to be called a "charm" bracelet.

It's made up of medical symbols. From its gold chain dangle a minute pair of forceps, a stethoscope, a caduceus, something which looks like a scalpel (it's a bit hard to tell—the instrument is only an inch long), a hypodermic syringe, a wheel chair, a microscope and—we leave this to the last for the benefit of more sensitive readers—a skull.

We found this witch doctor's bangle in the Hospital Aid Shop, as you have probably guessed. Costs a dollar. Purchase is not covered by Blue Cross.

Lots of small accessories: address books, a metal kit with toothbrush and powder, cases with nail file, comb and tweezers. We liked the optimistic one with a shoe-horn inside.

There's rack in the rear of the store where you'll find paperback books and greeting cards. Three books on this rack stand out on our list of Good Reading for Hospital Patients: "The Doomsters," "Crash Club" and "The Art of Italian Cooking."

On the card rack, incidentally, everything is up-beat: no "sick" cards in this shop!

Floral Offerings. Easter at Allen's Flower Shop in Hopewell consists of flowers (real and not quite), gourmet delicacies and amusing accessories.

Flowers — well, you can buy potted lilies, tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, azalea, gloxinias and African violets, and corsages of almost anything, but especially of orchids.

Imitation flowers have been used in some of those delightful arrangements the Allens do so well: for spring, most of the compositions are airy and Oriental in feeling like the almond blossoms in a low bowl, or the Dutch iris, larkspur and daisies in a casual, natural arrangement.

(Many of the arrangements, by the way, can be done in small Grecian containers made in Greece and copied precisely from museum pieces. Each of the miniatures has on the bottom the name of the museum which owns the original. The black, terra-cotta and white designs are really too handsome to be concealed by a flower arrangement in our opinion; take a look yourself.)

In the gourmet corner, Allen's has beach plum conserve, green tomato piccalilli, sweet red pepper relish and other homey products packed in Easter baskets for holiday giving. Rock candy and hard spice candies are part of this collection, too. Prices are around $2-$3 for a basket of two or three square jars.

Allen's favorite new candy is an llems eventually or they'll pick up some garbled story in the gutter.

There will be a special children's show at the Playhouse on Saturday at 1 p.m. The program includes "Tarzan's Greatest Adventure" in color, starring Gordon Scott as Tarzan, and cartoons.

THE GARDEN

The Most Wonderful Moment (April 6-9) is a clinically explicit treatment of childbirth which is handled in such good taste that it is actually boring. Italian-made, but with a dubbed English soundtrack, the film stars Marcello Mastroianni, Giovanna Relli and Marisa Merlini.

It concerns a young doctor (Mastroianni) who is a firm advocate of "painless childbirth" and whose personal problems center around the pregnancy of his girl friend (Misa Ralli), an assistant in the obstetrical department. The mixture of education and soap opera is not propitious. Luciano Emmer directed.

The Grapes of Wrath (April 11). John Steinbeck's moving story about migrant workers journeying from Oklahoma to California during the dustbowl of the 1930's, was filmed in 1940 and is still one of Hollywood's great pictures of all time. Its virtues were rewarded by a number of Academy Awards.

John Ford directed from the screenplay by Nunnally Johnson, and Darryl Zanuck was the producers. Featured players include Henry Fonda, Doris Bowdon, Charlie Grapewin and Jane Darwell. Recommended.

The Snow Queen (April 12-16) is a Russian-made animated cartoon feature with a made-in-U.S.A. prologue by fatherly old Art Linkletter and English voices dubbed by, among others, Sandra Dee, Tommy Kirk and Patty McCormack. Produced in Eastman color, it is a pleasant enough retelling of the old tale, although the technical production, while competent, is not up to Walt Disney's level.

The story involves a boy who is kidnapped by the snow queen and the efforts of his girl playmate to find him. Her search is a difficult one, as she becomes involved with robbers, princes and princesses and a reindeer. It all turns out happily when the first thaw melts the snow queen. The kids will enjoy this one if they're still too young to stay up for "Peter Gunn."

CLUB PLANS REVEALED

For "Pine Brae." More than 200 persons attended a rainy afternoon "Open House" on Sunday at a farm on the Blawenburg-Rocky Hill Road which will become, its backers hope, the "Pine Brae Club," a limited-membership country club for families who live in the Princeton area.

Seven brick farm buildings comprise the nucleus of the club's property. (The actual farm house is not included; it was split off from the rest of the farm and sold as a separate package. David Demme, its owner, is one of the backers of the club.)

The main brick barn which is 40 by 120 feet, will be converted into a bar-lounge with snack facilities. One of the silos will provide the shell for a spiral stairway leading to an upper foor where there will be room for children's games, dancing and so on.

On its 38 acres, Pine Brae will also have a swimming pool, 100 by 40 feet with diving el, and a children's pool, both adjacent to a brick cabana (presently a farm equipment building.) There will be four tennis courts, stables and bridle paths, picnic area, archery range, badminton court, two ice skating ponds and possibly a skeet range.

The property is owned by Mario J. Lombardo of Trenton, and present plans call for leasing the land from Mr. Lombardo for ten years with an option to buy. Initiation fee for a family membership is $700 and annual dues are $300 the first year and $325 in subsequent years. Single membership plans are scaled accordingly. If there is enough initial response, backers hope to have the swimming pool ready by July 4.

Organizers of the club are B.R. Britt, Chapin Carpenter, Jr., Mr. Demme, E.M. Gorman, A.C.R. Hicks, P. H. Knowlton, J. Richard Poisson, Hans K. Sander, J. S. Stover, T.J. Valdes and N. B. Woodworth

THEY'RE FOR CASE

Committee Named. Nineteen Princeton residents have been named to the Princeton Committee for Clifford P. Case, according to an announcement from Senator H. Alexander Smith, honorary director of Senator Case's campaign. Thomas P. Cook has accepted the chairmanship of the committee following the death last week of John C. Williams.

Senator Case will speak at the Princeton Inn Sunday at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of the combined Republican Clubs. The public is invited.

Committee members are: Percy H. Clark, Mr. Cook, Angelo Dalle Pezze, G. Victor Davis, Harold W. Dodds, Amos Eno, Gilbert Lea, Mrs. W. Barlow Levet, Rensselaer W. Lee, Stanley C. Smoyer and A. T. MacAllister.

NURSES "AT HOME"

School Plans Open House. Princeton Hospital will open the doors of its School of Practical Nursing this Saturday and Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. so that all residents of Princeton and surrounding communities may have an opportunity to see the new school which opened in January. Refreshments will be served. The occasion marks the first time the Hospital has held an "Open House" since 1957 when more than 1,000 persons visited "Merwick."

Visitors will be able to see classrooms, laboratories and other rooms in the new school, with students acting as hosts. Both school and equipment reflect the most modern developments in the field of practical nursing.

SEVEN SEEK LICENSE

Easter Parade Dies

Denying that it had any intention of "commercializing" Easter, the Lions Club announced this week that it has cancelled plans to sponsor an Easter Parade in Princeton on April 17.

The club said its intentions were "misconstrued," and that it had merely sought to "encourage people to attend church services and then take a neighborly stroll 'on the avenue'." Letters of criticism resulted, and the proposal to back such an occasion (which had included plans to award prizes for best dressed Princetonians) has been withdrawn.

The Lions' statement also mentioned their forthcoming "broom sale," an annual event which offers various types of household equipment on a door-to-door basis. Proceeds underwrite the cost of numerous charitable projects in which the service organization engages.

The three restaurants seeking the license are King's Court, Lamplighter and Renwick's. Princeton Recreation Center, 138 Nassau Street, is another application.

The three individuals interested in the license for new establishments are Joseph Coughlan, Michael Pilenza and John P. Silvester. Mr. Coughlan proposes to build on Nassau Street near Harrison.

Mr. Pilenza has been granted a waiver of off-street parking requirements by the Borough Zoning Board for the conversion of 18 Witherspoon Street to a pizza pie restaurant. The building was occupied by Community Liquors, now at 23 Witherspoon Street. Mr. Silvester, the former owner of Silvester Motors at 259 Nassau Street, is considering a cocktail lounge at that address.

RANCH ROOM CLOSED

By Board of Health. The Ranch Room of the Sun Ray Drug Store in the Princeton Shopping Center was closed Friday afternoon by the Board of Health of Princeton Township for violations of the municipality's health code.

Mrs. Marcella Farley, Acting Health Officer of the Township, said that she closed the restaurant because of 11 health violations which she found on February 10. A few minor adjustments were made by the manager, according to Mrs. Farley, but they were not sufficient. The Ranch Room will remain closed until it complies with all of the Board of Health's requirements.

Officials of the health department inspect all Township eating places and all establishments that handle food about three or four times a year.

At the Board of Health meeting Thursday night, Harvey Moore, assistant Township attorney, was asked to investigate the jurisdiction which the Board of Health might have over food handling facilities in Township schools.

BOROUGH AGENDA SET

Council to Meet Tuesday. At the regular meeting of Borough Council Tuesday at 8 in Borough Hall, a public hearing is scheduled on the extension of Prospect Avenue from Cedar Lane to the Borough Line. The ordinance increasing taxi rates, recommended by the Finance Committee, will be introduced, as well as the new sidewalk assessment for property owners on Hamilton Avenue.

The Council will take action on a recommendation of the Committee on the Future of Princeton to extend the Jadwin Street business zone. The Mitchell property (bounded by Chambers Street, John Street and Avalon Place) would be included.

The appointment of a police sergeant will be announced, and the Council will authorize a tax refund of over $13.00 to Princeton Municipal Improvement Inc. following an appeal on its 1959 assessment.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN!

Minstrel Show Scheduled. Officers and members of the Lawrenceville Fire Company will present their annual Minstrel and Variety Show this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Fire House. Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m.

James Hopkins will direct the production this year and John Maple will serve as chairman. The production committee includes the following chairmen: Frank Bussom, refreshments and door prizes; Wilfred Turner, advertising; Frank Reading, patrons and William Eggert, tickets. Fred LeCompt, Jr., will be at the piano.

Tickets for the event may be purchased from any member of the company or at Formans Service Station, Lawrenceville. Proceeds will help defray expenses connected with maintaining fire equipment and the fire house.

LODGE CELEBRATES

Anniversary. Daughters of Scotia who belong to Thistle Lodge 220 will celebrate the 21st anniversary of their lodge with a dinner dance this Saturday at the Fireside Restaurant, New Brunswick, starting at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Joseph McLean is chairman of the event.

The next meeting of the lodge will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Odd Fellows Hall, 23 Witherspoon. Mrs. James McDowall, Chief Daughter, will preside.

GIVEN 240 DAYS

For Disorderly Acts. In a special session of Magistrate's Court, William H. Hill, 49, of 114 Witherspoon Street was sentenced to spend 240 days in jail by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams for a series of disorderly conduct violations.

Hill was found guilty of assaulting Joseph Netter, also of 114 Witherspoon Street, and Patrolman Richard Panicaro. Placed in a cell, Hill destroyed all its plumbing facilities. For this string of acts, which took place last Thursday night, Hill received a sentence totaling eight months.

In other criminal cases, George F. Robinson, III, 29, of 86 Spruce Street, was ordered to spend 21 days in the Mercer County Workhouse for passing worthless checks. Found guilty of non-support, Leon Summers, of 116 Witherspoon Street, was directed to pay $23 a week to his wife and children for their support. He was also put on probation for one year. Summers denied the non-support charge which was brought by Mrs. Allee Schannel, Borough welfare head.

TWO RELEASED ON BAIL

After Disorderly Acts. Willie Hinton, 32, of 28 Green Street was charged with being a disorderly person for assaulting Demetro Romeo, proprietor of the Colonial Restaurant, 35 Witherspoon Street after a dispute.

Also charged with being disorderly was John L. Isacs, 20, of 1901 Hall, Princeton University. Isacs was accused of using violent and offensive language toward police officers in The Nassau Coffee Shop on Nassau Street. He was also issued a summons for tampering with the police patrol car prior to entering the coffee shop.

Both Hinton and Isacs were released upon posting of $50 cash bail. Each incident occurred at 1:30 in the morning, the first last Friday and the other on Monday morning.

WOMAN GUILTY

On Disorderly Charge. Miss Pearl A. Everett, 30, of 116 Leigh Avenue was fined $25 in criminal court for using violent and profane language toward police officers while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Miss Everett's mother had called police Saturday night to ask them to remove her daughter who had bee creating a disturbance in her home. Patrolmen Russell Shangle and Ralph Procacino answered the call.

WOMAN FINED $25

For Dousing Bartinder. For throwing a glass of quinine water in the face of Frank Stepenosky, bartender at Rosso's Cafe, 16 Spring Street, Miss Dolly King, 29, of Skillman was fined $25 by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams in criminal court.

Mr. Stepenosky called police when Miss King, after throwing a drink in his face, refused to leave the premises. The incident occurred Saturday evening.

AGREE ON TOP FILM OF 1959: Both John Archer and Mrs. Harriet Stanton pick "On The Beach" as the outstanding motion picture of 1959, chiefly for its realism and message. For the choice others make, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: The annual motion picture Academy Awards were made Monday. What was your choice for the outstanding film of 1959?

Where asked: Around town.

Miss Jeannette Thomson, 242 Nassau Street, assistant head bookkeeper, First National Bank: "The Nun's Story." It was the first picture I've seen that followed the original story as faithfully and vividly as possible.

Ulf R. Carlsson, 226-C Marshall Street, instructor at Princeton University: I think I would pick "Wild Strawberries" because of the acting of Victor Sjostrom. The director, Mr. Bergman, tried to explain some stages in life that everybody must go through.

Miss Christobel O'Brien, West Hanover Street, Trenton, secretary: "Pather Panchali," an Indian film. It was the most artistic and the most beautiful movie I've ever seen.

Steve Nickman, Hamilton Hall, Princeton University student: "Black Orpheus," a French film made in Brazil. The acting and the directing were exceptional.

Miss Judy Kingston, 108 Stockton Street, student at Princeton Theological Seminary: The one I enjoyed the most was "He Who Must Die," which was a Greek film, I believe. It dealt with some serious issues in life in a manner other than the way Hollywood usuelly treats them.

Merrill Burton, Blair Hall, Princeton University student: I'd say "The Mouse That Roared." It was a complete farce about a little country declaring war against the United States and I came away from the theatre laughing my head off. The whole point of it was a satire on the foolish and futile outlook of big nations which today go on and on increasing the size and power of their forces. It gave me a chance to laugh at the bigness and the bureaucracy of the U. S.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton, 218-C King Street, branch manager of University Cleaners: "On the Beach." The story in it was very realistic — it could happen a few years from now. It was something that even children could understand.

John Archer, 25 Wiggins Street, vice-president of University Cleaners: "On The Beach." I was impressed by its message of the terrible impact of atomic fallout. It was very well done throughout.

Mrs. George Lyford, 32 Wiggins Street, housewife: "Room At The Top." It had the best acting, the best directing — it was the best picture overall. The subject matter on the whole was very maturely handled — as it would have to be.

Peter Asch, 401-C Avenue, graduate student in economics: "The Nun's Story." I thought it was a very moving picture. I hadn't been aware of the hardships, or whatever you may wish to call them, that nuns have to go through in their training. The picture impressed me very much.

Note to Hollywood

Asked to name their favorite motion picture of the past year, Princetonians offered Hollywood a word of advice in passing: While some of them listed U. S.-made films ("The Nun's Story," "On the Beach," "Room at the Top"), others cited foreign productions. Among them were pictures made in Sweden, India, England, France and Greece.

No doubt because it has yet to be shown in Princeton, only one man questioned by TOWN TOPICS named the picture that won the Academy Award Monday as 1959's best film. It was "Ben Hur."

Mrs. J. H. Colby, The Great Road, housewife: "Room At The Top." The acting in this film was superb. Also, it was very well photographed and directed.

Mrs. Louis Simpson, 217-B Eisenhower Street, housewife: "Wild Strawberries." It was the kind of movie I like in that it contained psychological problems. It may not have been the most well-rounded picture that I've seen but I enjoyed it.

Richard Knight, Penns Neck, manager of Princeton Playhouse and Garden Theater: I think from a standpoint of the amount of business a picture does I would pick "Operation Petticoat." I wouldn't pick this film from an acting standpoint, however.

Miss Mary Lee Skinner, 104 Library Place, student at St. Timothy's, Baltimore: "The Nun's Story." The acting was very good and it wasn't overdramatized, as most Hollywood pictures are. It also had a good plot.

Miss Susan Lerner, 83 Allison Road, student at Miss Hewitt's, New York: "Room At The Top." All the performances were very good. I thought it to be one of the best pictures I've seen in a long time.

Calvin Walker, 218 Harrison Street, graduate student: I think the English film, "Room At The Top," was the best. It had more to say and was very realistic. It just wasn't entertainment.

Mrs. Edith Shadovitz, Roosevelt, housewife: "Room At The Top." The acting was excellent. The leading man did a very good job. The whole picture, directing, acting, etc., was very well done.

Donald Borchert, Brown Hall, Princeton Theological Seminary: I haven't seen too many but the best one, I feel, was "Ben Hur." The symbolism in the picture was tremendous. An example would be at the end of the picture where water is used as a symbol for cleansing. Rain falls down on the crucified figure of Christ and at the same time beats down on the faces of cleansed lepers who are looking heavenward. The story of Ben Hur is a very moving one.

ADVERTISING VOLUME is based on results. That's why TOWN TOPICS carries more classified advertising each week in the year than all other Princeton papers combined.

Why I Plan To Vote for MORRIS | for CASE

for MORRIS

By Dilman M. K. Smith

In the forthcoming primary to select a Republican candidate for U. S. Senator from New Jersey, I am going to vote for Robert Morris of Point Pleasant.

Under our system of free elections, candidates present themselves before the electorate, asking the citizens to examine their records of experience, and to listen to the candidates' ideas for solving the challenging problems of our times. Robert Morris has a good record — a Naval Intelligence Officer, a lawyer, a judge, and seven years a counsel for three Senate Committees in Washington.

Robert Morris has constructive ideas on the role the Senate should play in advancing the welfare of the country. He believes, for example, that inflation must be stopped because it hits hardest on those least able to afford it, and is making the cost of the weapons of defense almost prohibitive. Robert Morris believes that national security is the prime issue of our day. We must, therefore, deal with Sovet power from a position of strength, and et the same time restore and strengthen our internal security.

Mr. Morris believes that non-essential, non-defense spending can and must be reduced. Robert Morris believes that excessive taxation defeats its own purpose and that tax reduction and the resulting restoration of incentives will produce more total revenue for the federal government.

He believes that continuing efforts must be made to insure that labor legislation effectively prevents crippling strikes, labor racketeering, "bossism" in unions and other abuses that affect the rights of individual workers and consumers. Robert Morris believes that the U. S. foreign policy should be based on national self-interest, and that foreign aid should be put on a business-like basis.

Robert Morris has an opponent in the forthcoming primary—Senator Clifford P. Case who has represented New Jersey in Washington for the past six years.

Apparently Mr. Case does not believe in the basic principles set forth by Robert Morris. Mr. Case in 1959 voted 18 times for huge spending bills—bills opposed by President Eisenhower. He voted against regulatory progressive labor legislation. He even voted to extend benefits to peacetime GIs similar to benefits due World War II veterans. Even the American Legion opposed this bill. But Case voted for it!

A careful study of Mr. Case's voting record shows an absolutely irresponsible attitude toward economic soundness, and a flagrant attitude toward the Eisenhower anti-inflationary program.

The New Jersey citizens who elected Mr. Case in 1954 had a right to expect a far greater sense of responsibility than Mr. Case has shown. Robert Morris can provide decisive, intelligent, responsible representation in the United States Senate.

An editorial in the Perth Amboy Evening News summarized Republican opportunities on Primary Day: "New Jersey needs stronger and more effective representation in the Senate. New Jersey Republicans will now be able to demonstrate whether they want to be represented by a man who subscribes to his party's fundamental principles, or someone who is a pale imitation of a welfare-state Democrat."

These are the reasons why I am voting for Robert Morris in the Primary on April 19.

for CASE

By Thomas P. Cook

One good term deserves another —and this is especially true with respect to Senator Clifford L. Case. I plan to vote for Case in the Republican Primary because his broad experience as a legislator and his record of intelligent and dedicated service eminently qualify him for reelection to the United States Senate.

Mr. Case, a lawyer by profession, has acquired legislative experience at both State and Federal levels. He began in the New Jersey Assembly, was elected to the House of Representatives four times for a total of eight years, and is now completing his sixth year as Senator. The calibre of his service has been attested by our eminent Senator H. Alexander Smith, who worked closely with Case in the Senate for years, and is now strongly supporting him as "vigorous, intelligent and conscientious" and "very able." (see Senator Smith's article in Town Topics last week).

A man who has such an impressive record and is willing to run for reelection should, to my mind, be renominated by his own party unless there are compelling reasons to the contrary.

Opposition to Senator Case stems primarily from the so-called "right wing" of the Republican Party, which claims that Case has voted too much for "unnecessary federal spending," and that he originally voted against a number of amendments proposed by Senator McClellan for the Kennedy labor reform bill (although Case did eventually vote for the Landrum-Griffin bill). The opposition overlooks the fact that the great majority of his votes have supported President Eisenhower, especially in the critical spheres of foreign policy and civil rights. The New York Times listed 12 Senate votes as the most significant of the last session of Congress. On 10 of these Senator Case's position was identical with that of the President. A study by the Congressional Quarterly reached virtually the same conclusion.

Cliff Case's independence and "liberal" inclination are an asset, not a liability. Republicans must face the political fact that they can only win elections in this State and in the country generally by appealing to the independent voter.

While Mr. Morris is a man of ability and promise, his philosophy of "A Republican for Republicans", now appearing on his campaign literature, will not win general elections, — especially against a strong and able candidate such as Thorn Lord, the probable Democratic nominee. I think it more important to keep the Republican Party alive and to preserve some party balance in the Senate than to ditch an outstanding public servant because he is too independent and progressive to suit our more conservative members.

Choice of Play Questioned

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

May I beg space in your valuable columns for intrusion of the following well-meant protest. Thank you for your indulgence.

To Princeton's Theatre Intime:

I consider a disgrace the foisting on the unsuspecting community of greater Princeton this proposed jazzed-up playing of W. H. Auden's "Age of Anxiety."

In America we do not burn books, but at best this work should remain sealed between covers. It can appeal only to cynics, bored ladies and jaded intellectuals. Thank God, we have few of these in Princeton.

This defeatist, nihilistic and aberrated piece of writing reflects a time that is past. Only in the final pages is there a groping towards God, the feeling of salvation for us who deserve salvation.

I am not an ostrich. I am a busy man . . . Yes, the world is imperfect . . . Here, I look to youth for leadership. Why then, in the God-given springtime on this glorious campus, must youth, with all life before it, engage in this muddled, turgid backwards looking drama?

If Dean of the University, I would look long and earnestly to the chapel attendance and scholastic records of all undergraduates partaking in this production.

Why? Why? Deponent knoweth not . . . Is to cry in the wilderness.

With utmost sincerity,

ERICH MILLMOSSE
195 Nassau Street.

Against Easter Parade.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I wish to add my protest to those of the others whose letters have been published recently, regarding the Easter Parade sponsored by the Lions Club.

In common with a great many people of Princeton, I feel that it is a pity that an organization which has done so many fine things for this community should now cast a blot upon its reputation by promoting such a sacrilege.

Heart Fund Says Thanks.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In the 1960 Heart Fund campaign which has just been completed, the residents of Princeton again have demonstrated their confidence in the American Heart Association through their generosity. Their contributions, and those of millions of Americans throughout the land, will assure the continued expansion of our research, education and community heart program.

This happy result could not have been achievd without the help of the hundreds of volunteers who freely gave their time and energy to carry on the drive. Nor could it have been attained without the help of your publication in reporting how Heart Fund dollars are helping every day to speed the control of the heart diseases here and everywhere in the nation.

On behalf of the Mercer County Heart Association, I want to extend to you, to our devoted army of volunteers and to all of the residents of the community our deep appreciation for this wholehearted and valued support.

We look forward to your continued help in bringing to the people of this community the latest knowledge about the heart diseases made possible through their support of the Heart Fund.

"LOOP PLAN" URGED

By Undergraduate Council. A petition endorsing the "loop plan" to divert traffic from Washington Road has been presented to Governor Meyner by the Undergraduate Council of Princeton University. The petition carried 3,485 signatures of students, faculty, administration and employees.

The council's action was prompted by three undergraduate fatalities on Washington Road in the past three years. Two of these fatalities have occurred in the last three months.

The "loop plan," which has been under consideration for some time by municipal, state and county officials, would provide alternate routes, thus reducing the amount of traffic on Washington Road, which cuts through the middle of the university campus.

The Undergraduate Council's petition states that "the realization of this plan, first leading to a substantial reduction in Washington Road traffic and eventually to its elimination, is an essential step in ensuring the safety of Princeton undergraduates who must now cross this thoroughfare to attend classes and to reach the eating clubs."

Students See Governor. The petition was presented by the council's vice chairman, Ronald W. Fisher, and its secretary-treasurer, Philip L. Bruner, at a meeting with Governor Meyner in the State House last week.

"While recognizing that responsibility must be shared by all members of the University Community," the petition said, "we feel the necessity for positive action. Needed local measures such as better street lighting, additional traffic lights, the posting of speed-limit signs, and the designation of school zones offer only a temporary solution. We therefore commend to your attention the creation of alternate traffic routes serving to reduce Washington Road traffic."

almond with a mint covering in green, pink or yellow. All three colors in a little box for $1.70. Don't eat the daisies — or even the bananas, for that matter. They're part of a collection of fake fruit, wrought so meticulously that even the flaws in a banana skin are visible. And the peach has "fuzz".

No worms in the apple.

The floral and gift shop is located on West Broad Street, the main street o Hopewell. Mr. Allen has a real dogwood tree in his window and he has decorated it with dozens of one-inch pink flowers, wiring them on just as you'd put ornaments on a Christmas tree. Delightful effect. A fountain pumps along underneath.

Skirts at the Window. Somebody has robbed the slip-cover people to find material for a group of one-of-a-kind skirts now available at The Clothes Line on Palmer Square. One is a frankly culinary print with vegetables and skewers and so on scattered over it. Another depicts a French fishing village, a third is a print of an old-fashioned port with rum casks, coffee bags, swinging tavern signs, and so on. They are $12.95 and shorts which match are $7.95.

Madras appears in something new, you'll be glad to hear. The most fashionable cotton for several seasons now, madras comes out this summer in kilts. Clothes Line has them, Bermuda-length, in soft pleats or stitched down pleats which flare out at hip elevation.

Next door at the Little Clothes Line, you'll find Winnie-the-Pooh sunsuits with appropriate characters embroidered on leg and chest. Other sunsuits have amusing legends like "Rapid Turnover" below an embroidery of children somersaulting. This is a diaper panty, as a matter of fact.

An irrestible toddler's costume consists of a batiste nightie in forget-me-not print with a soft terry robe to go over it, both fashioned to hang straight from a high yoke. The robe has been lined with the forget-me-not print and its collar has been made of it. The customer who will wear this outfit would be about on the brink of her second summer. For boys, the nightgown is cut exactly like a man's nightshirt — daddy will undoubtedly mistake it for a handkerchief because of its size — and the robe has been severely tailored, with a swaggering sash belt.

Older sisters will want the seersucker candy stripe dress, sleeveless, with collarless bont neck and white ball button. This is for girls in the up-to-14-range.

For them, too, a Glen plaid suit with box pleats and stubby short jacket with white collar. Bathing suits for girls (Cole of California) have quilted gingham jackets which protect from the sun those areas left exposed by Mr. Cole.

BUDGET PANELS SET

By United Community Fund. The annual budget panel conferences sponsored by the Princeton United Community Fund will be held April 20 at Princeton High School, it was announced by George J. Adriance, assistant treasurer of the fund and chairman of its Budget and Admissions Committee.

Invitations to the conferences are being mailed this week to persons in the community who are expected to be interested in attending, he said. He emphasized, however, that anyone who wants to attend and does not receive an invitation should make arrangements by calling Mrs. Francis Darke at Community Fund headquarters, WA 4-5882.

The budget panel conferences bring together members of the contributing public, representatives of the boards of the participating agencies and trustees of the Community Fund for initial budget discussions.

Representatives of the agencies explain how organizations function and how the money is used. Community members of the panel then ask questions and evaluate the effectiveness of the agency. Reports of the panel conferences are kept for consideration by the Budget Committee in determining the 1960 campaign goal.

Other members of the Budget and Admissions Committee are Mrs. Leonard C. Johnson, Hans O. Kauffmann, Ralph S. Mason,

HEADING FOR HOMES: The canvas bags shown here are full of books for home-bound readers who are unable to visit Princeton Public Library in person. "OPEN NEW WORLDS"

Is Library Week Theme. "Open Wonderful New Worlds" is the theme for this year's observance of National Library Week, which is being marked this week at Princeton Public Library. The annual observance, inaugurated in 1958, is designed to focus attention on libraries and reading.

Posters about National Library Week are currently on display in Princeton stores. In addition, small table exhibits are being shown in local restaurants, clubs and hotel dining rooms. The Princeton Library has issued a special invitation to all those who are not yet library members to stop in and join during this week.

An appeal to all citizens to make a special effort to use their libraries has been issued by President Eisenhower. "The strength of our nation is founded in the minds and hearts of its citizens—individuals who have sought out the truth and formed their own convictions," he said. "In this search, the freedom to read is an indispensable asset."

His remarks were reaffirmed by William I. Nichols, national chairman of the Library Week observance, who said: "Limited horizons are dangernus to a free people. Only a lifetime of continued self-education through reading can keep Americans prepared to exercise responsible citizenship."

Princetanians on Committee. Many Princeton residents are members of the New Jersey Committee for National Library Week. Mrs. Robert B. Meyner is state chairman and other committee members are: Lee Bristol, a member of the board of trustees of Princeton Public Library; Dr. William R. Dix, librarian, Firestone Library; Miss Barbara Light, assistant director, Princeton Public Library; Mrs. Edward L. Katzenbach, president, New Jersey State Board of Education.

Also, Dr. Roger McDonough, New Jersey State Librarian; Leonard Newton, president, New Jersey Junior Chamber of Commerce; Norvell B. Samuels, associate director, Princeton University Press; and James P. Stewart, president, New Jersey Chamber of Commerce.

The Princeton Library, which circulates as many as 20,000 books in a month, also maintains a service for home-bound readers who are unable to visit the library in person. The books are selected by Miss Light, head of adult services, who maintains files of readers' interests and past reading. Volunteers deliver the books to the readers' homes on alternate Thursdays.

In addition, the library circulates framed pictures, records, periodicals, pamphlets and naps, and conducts various programs. These include a pre-school story hour on Saturday mornings at 10:30; a story hour Wednesday afternoons at 3:30; record concerts and book reviews at noon time on Wednesdays and discussion groups on world affairs on Mondays.

Concert April 13. The next record concert will be held next Wednesday, April 13, at 12:30 p.m. in the Periodical Room. Arnold Schonberg's Quartets Numbers 2 and 3, played by the Juilliard String Quartet, with

LOCKHEED BUYS SITE

On Route One. Lockheed Electronics has announced the purchase of a 212-acre site in West Windsor Township. The area will eventually become the headquarters for the company, which is the electronics subsidiary of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation of Burbank, Calif.

Spokesmen for Lockheed say that the new plant will employ about 2,000 workers who will be concerned with research, development and manufacturing facilities for military and industrial electronic systems and subsystems. No date will be set for construction until the company has completed a master plan for development of the property.

The land lies at the intersection of Route One and Province Line Road with 4,500 front feet along the highway. The northern boundary is Province Line Road and the rear of the property is on the Delaware and Raritan Canal. The land was purchased from Mrs. Ada West and from the estate of William S. Schenck. The West farm has been in that family since the 18th century.

David F. Sanders, president of the company, says that the buildings will be modern, quiet and smokeless. The site was chosen, according to Mr. Sanders, because of its central location in the Boston-New York-Washington area, where most of the country's electronics industries are located and because of its proximity to private industrial laboratories and electronic development centers and the research facilities of Princeton University.

GIVEN G.M. FRANCHISE

To Sell Buick, Pontiac. Corydon S. Kammler of Skillman has been awarded the Buick-Pontiac dealership for this area.

He will open the Kammler Buick-Pontiac Automobile Agency in new Colonial-style quarters on Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport. Ground has been broken, and the agency expects to be in business on July 4.

The four-acre tract has a 400-foot frontage on Route 206. There will be a service department under Mr. Kammler's supervision, with modern service facilities including individual hydraulic lifts for each technician and the most advanced tools and equipment.

Mr. Kammler is president of Kammler Auto Lease Company in Elizabeth and past president of the North Jersey Service Association. A graduate of the General Motors Institute of Technology at Flint, Mich., he has been mechanic, service manager, officer and co-owner of the Union County Buick Company in Elizabeth. He comes from a family which has been associated with the automobile business since his grandfather opened an agency in 1905.

AWARDED FRANCHISE: Corydon S. Kammler of Skillman has been named the new Buick - Pontiac dealer for the Princeton area.

DE BREE TO HEAD FIRM

Buys Control of Check-a-Tron. F. William De Bree, 56 Adams Drive, was named to the presidency of Check-a-Tron of Princeton, Inc., as of April 1. Mr. De Bree bought controlling interest in the firm from its former president, Harold Zarker, vice-president of Princeton Bank & Trust, who developed the electronic bookkeeping system.

Mr. De Bree has had many years' experience in sales management and he will launch a national sales program to promote Check-a-Tron. The system offers to individuals or to small businesses a low-cost electronic bookkeeping system similar to that used by all major corporations. Mr. Zarker, who developed the system will remain with it in an advisory capacity.

MOTEL TO OPEN

On Route One. The "Princeton Motor Lodge," a two-story motel in Colonial style, will open 18 units on Route One about April 20, according to its builder, Anthony La Placa. The Lodge is located about two miles south of the Penns Neck traffic circle at the Meadow Road turn-off, 10 minutes from Princeton.

Equipment includes 21-inch television sets, air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting and modern furniture and decoration from Nassau Interiors in Princeton. Rooms measure 27 by 13½ feet and each one will contain two double beds.

FOOD MACHINERY EXPANDS

Sheldon Heads New Section. The recently-completed addition to the Research and Development Center of the Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation on Route One is now occupied by the Applications Section. This functions as a part of FMC's Inorganic Research and Development Department.

Fred Sheldon, general manager of the section, is in charge of all applications and sales service work in the department. In addition to being well-known for his technical knowledge in the pulp and paper industry, Mr. Sheldon is an active research statistician. He is the author of several papers on the use of statistical methods in research and development.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon and their three children, Andy, Charles and Abby, live at 184 Clover Lane. The Sheldons are active members of the Community Players and have both appeared on the Playmill stage during the past two seasons. They are former residents of Buffalo, N.Y., and Mrs. Sheldon is the former Anne Mehaffy of Little Rock, Ark.

VIENNA CHOIR BOYS SING

Audience Response Warm. An audience representing all ages and several nationalities filled McCarter Theatre on Friday night to hear and witness and attraction that will always seem to many a phenomenon — the gifted young members of the Vienna Choir Boys. It is difficult to imagine that these pint-sized musicians, for all their professional discipline, are also "just little boys", but if one were to see them on the corner lot playing baseball, they would seem just as fresh and natural as they do on the stage, singing Palestrina.

Conducted by Helmuth Froschauer, this choir numbers about 22 boys, and is one of the three choirs of Viennas' Hofmisikkapelle. The personnel of the three choirs is rotated so that each boy may have a chance to tour as well as to serve with the organization in Vienna.

From a repertoire covering five centuries of choral music the choir chose a group of six sacred and secular songs to open the evening. In terms of blend and intonation, this part of the program was, unfortunately, a bit ragged, but this condition disappeared as the concert progressed.

The middle portion of the program, devoted to the presentation of an operatic entitled "The Silly Girls," and based on a Moliere play and music by Johann Strauss, gave the youngsters a chance to display their acting talents, to the endless delight of the audience. There seems to be a touch of the "ham actor" in most little boys, and each of the members of the cast played his role to the hilt, with refreshing zest and vitality — and some very beautiful singing, to boot.

After what seemed to be a very short intermission, the boys were all lined up on stage in their sailor suits again, and presented a group of folk songs which were, chorally, the high point of the evening. It was in these songs that the discipline of choral technique and naturally beautiful voices came together to create a performance of the highest professional and artistic quality.

So skillfully have these children been trained that the voices in each part sound together as one— a difficult feat even for adult singers to perform! The folk songs were sung mainly in German, with an occasional one in English. Mr. Froschheuers arrangements are well-done, and admirable suit the clear voices of his young charisters.

The evening was indeed worthwhile, and all too short. Judging from the warm audience response, it is hoped that the Vienna Choir Boys will make a visit to Princeton an annual event.

(Roger Sessions, well-known composer who makes his home in Princeton, has written the following commentary for TOWN TOPICS on his "Idyll of Theocritus" which the Princeton Symphony Orchestra will play, under Mr. Ressoni's baton, Monday night in McCarter Theatre.)

BACKGROUND NOTES

Sessions Comments on His "Idyll." In the fall of 1912 when I was 15 years old I heard an orchestral work entitled "A Pagan Poem" by Charles Martin Loeffler, which at the time impressed me strongly. It is a symphonic poem, based on one of Virgil's Eclogues, in which a girl is waiting impatiently for her lover to come to her; at intervals during the poem there occurs a kind of refrain, in which she calls him to her.

What impressed me particularly was the rather striking effect produced by brass instruments which, from behind the scenes, created a kind of musical counterpart of this reiterated refrain, and which finally appeared on the stage itself, representing the final appearance of the lover, amid general rejoicing—and of course, the conclusion of the piece!

The commentaries of the Loeffler piece which I read at the time drew attention to the fact that the poem of Virgil was a pale imitation of a far greater poem, the Second Idyll of Theocritus. I found myself very curious about the Theocritus poem and I made some effort to get hold of a translation, I did not succeed at the time, and forgot about it.

Some 20 years later, in Berlin, I found in a second-hand bookstore a copy of the Idylls of Theocritus, published in the eighteenth century in the original Greek; I found the Greek, however, very hard going and again put the whole thing out of my mind. Some years later I did come across an English translation, and was disappointed.

In the fall of 1952, however, I was on my way back to California from a year's stay in Europe. I stopped in Princeton to investigate housing possibilities in view of my imminent return here in 1953.

To read on the air trip to San Francisco I picked up the Viking Portable Greek Reader, and in the table of contents I ran across the name of the British poet, Robert C. Trevelyan, of whom I had seen something during my years in Italy, some 20 years earlier. His contribuuon to the volume was a translation of this Second Idyll of Theocritus, and I turned to it with great curiosity.

The translation, which I later found to be a very literal one, affected me very differently from the rather pale, nineteenth-century translation I had read earlier; the two protagonists, instead of behaving like well-brought-up English children in the Victorian manner, suddenly became real individuals in the grip of serious emotions, and I felt the full impact of the poem for the first time. I found myself haunted by it, and months later the impulse to set it to music became irresistible.

The result is the largest in design of all my concert music; one which makes the greatest possible demands of the singer, and I may add, on the composer, too. The poem is a very long one, full of vividness of detail, intensity of feeling, and dramatic impact. Quite unlike the poem of Virgil to which I have already referred, when the narrative ends, it is anything but certain that the final outcome will be a happy one.

Like that poem, however, it is characterized by a recurring refrain; in fact, by two different refrains, which dominate the two main sections of the poem.

The first of these two refrains especially, in which the girl Simaitha (it is she who sings the whole text) tries to summon her faithless lover back to her house through magic spells, plays a very central role in the musical setting. And the recurrent refrains both form an important characteristic feature of the musical design as a whole.

JACOBOWITZ TO PLAY

Sunday in Clio Hall. Ronald Jacobowitz, pianist, will present a concert Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in Clio Hall Auditorium of Princeton University. The concert is being sponsored by the Friends of Music at Princeton and is open to the public free of charge.

Mr. Jacobowitz is a graduate mathematics student at Princeton University. He has given a recital in Princeton during each of the past three years. The most recent was a program of Beethoven sonatas last Spring.

Principal work on this Sunday's program will be the "Piano Concerto in A Minor, Opus 85" by the Austrian composer Johann Hummel. A contemporary of Beethoven and Schubert, Hummel represents the link in piano-writing between Mozart and the early Romantics, especially Chopin.

Other works on the porgram will be: "Chorale-Prelude, Nun komm de Heiden Heiland," by Bach-Busoni; "Three Impromptus: C minor, Opus 90; G flat major, Opus 90, and B flat major, Opus 142," by Schubert, and "Adelaide (after Beethoven)" and "Funeralles" by Liszt.

SPRING SEASON ARRIVES

As Tiger Teams Return Home. A brief tour of the south, punctuated by an unanticipated explosion traceable to the baseball team, served to give four Princeton entries in the spring sports derby welcome experience. With the exception of the track team and the crew, which will not see action for another fortnight, the wearers of Orange and Black will be busy this weekend.

The principal hometown attraction will be the appearance of Johns Hopkins' lacrosse team, scheduled to play Ferris Thomsen's ten Saturday on University Field. Game-time is 2:30.

The Bluejays shared the national title in 1959 with Army and Maryland, and the latter just handed Princeton's inexperienced contingent a 16-4 pasting. A sizeable delegation from Baltimore is expected to be on hand for Saturday's session — in fact, the Hopkins stickmen are often accompanied by a large band.

Maryland was off to leads of 3-0 and 7-1 in the game at College Park last weekend, handling the Tigers without difficulty. The Princetonians have Army and Navy on the April schedule before they open Ivy competition against Pennsylvania, and if they come close to a triumph anywhere before the league season begins, it will be a distinct upset.

BALL TEAM A SURPRISE

Tigers Collect 41 Runs. No one around here had ever heard of Elon College before the Princeton baseball team booked it on its southern trip, and it is quite possible that few around Elon (in central North Carolina) had ever heard of Princeton.

The Tigers will be remembered in Elon for a while, at any rate, as a northern team which took them on without having been outside before leaving New Jersey, played errorless ball on a muddy field, hit five home runs and won, 19 to 2. And around Elon, the good teams like Wake Forest, North Carolina and North Carolina State will tell you that Elon is a far better than average baseball college.

The left field fence at Elon is 320 feet down the foul line, and some of the homers credited to the Tigers cleared it in left center. On the wings of a six-run fourth, they had a 10-0 lead before the losers scored, and they closed out with another six-run splurge in the top of the ninth.

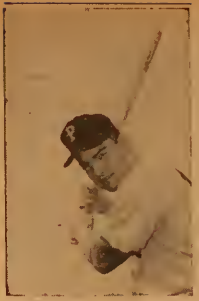
Captain Mike Ippolito, Ken Murray, Bill MacMillan, Pete Crispo and Gary Trout all homered for Eddie Donovan's outfit. Southpaw Dave Douglas worked the first four innings and got credit for the victory.

Loss to N.C. State. Joe Gibson, who holds a no-hit victory over Dartmouth to his credit this spring, beat Princeton for North Carolina State, 5 to 1. The Tigers made only three hits and were blanked until two were out in the ninth.

Against Georgetown on Saturday, inferior pitching by the Hoyas was partially responsible as the Orange and Black rolled to a 21-6 triumph. Ken Murray, first a shortstop and then an outfielder, has been converted into a pitcher by Donovan and worked the last six innings to pick up the victory. At the plate, he aided his cause with two doubles and a single.

Again, a pair of big innings were largely responsible for the one-sided triumph. The Tigers pushed five runs over in the third and sent 13 men to the plate in the seventh, seven of them scoring. Old-time baseball fans cannot recall totals of 19 and 21 runs credited to a Princeton team, nor has the output of five home runs in a game been matched during the modern (post-World War I) era here.

Donovan is going with a lineup of Elmer Naples, catcher; Bill MacMillan, first; Pete Crispo, second; Jack Whitehouse, short; and Bob Myslik, third. In the outfield, it's Ippolito, Mike Divine and Paul Finch, reading from left to right. Whitehouse and Divine are sophomores, Crispo and Ippolito, seniors; the rest are juniors.



HARD-HITTING CAPTAIN: Mike Ippolito bats cleanup for Tiger nine. Beginning his third year on the varsity, he will captain the team this spring.

OTHER SPORTS

Golf and Tennis at Home. After a trip all the way to Florida for a series of informal matches, John Conroy's tennis team will open its home season Saturday at 2:30 on the Church Courts with a match against Brown. The golf team, playing host to Colgate at 1:30, toured parts of North Carolina last week.

Sports In Princeton

Coach Pete Morgan had less luck with a projected trip to Virginia, where snow resulted in cancellation of two meets before the Tigers left. They'll open in Palmer Stadium against Rutgers on April 23. That's the date, too, for the first crew race of the season — against Navy on the Severn River at Annapolis.

PHS TRACKMEN STRONG

In Hurdles, Longer Distances. "I like to build my teams around a nucleus of either hurdlers or quarter-milers". Win Niles, head track coach at Princeton High School said in discussing his 1960 team.

In Lamont Fletcher, co-captain of this year's squad, and Jerry Cypress, Niles has "sure point winners" in the hurdles. Cypress has also looked good in the 440 and Fletcher in the 100 but in all probability, they will limit their talent to the hurdles.

The top three candidates for the 100-yard dash are Steve Seibetta, Tom Borgia and Rodney Still. This trio will probably also run the 2nd, since as Niles pointed out, "your dash men usually are your top 220 runners and, in high school, the 100 and the 220 are the only two races in which a boy can double up."

Half mile and mile performers will be selected from four boys who excelled for the cross-country team last fall. They are Dick Lappan and George Adams, seniors, and juniors Tom Harvey and Dick Tinsley. Lappan is felt to be the best all-round runner in the longer distances.

MRS. FROTHINGHAM WINS

Women's Squash Tournament. In the annual tournament of the Women's Squash Racquet Association of Princeton, held last week at the Pretty Brook Tennis Club, Mrs. David Frothingham defeated Mrs. Robert Potter in the finals, 15-10, 8-15, 15-9, 15-10.

In the semi-final matches, Mrs. Potter had defeated Mrs. Robert Clotworthy and Mrs. Frothingham turned back Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding. In a consolation tournament, Mrs. James Thornton vanquished Mrs. Lewis Kraft.

Other participants in the tournament, all from Princeton, included: Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Michael Ramus, Mrs. N. B. Woodworth, Mrs. D. L. Corlette, Mrs Aubrey Huston, Mrs. C. F. Fischer, Mrs. John Claghorn and Mrs. W. H. Tegarden, Mrs. J. K. Delano, Mrs. Arthur Mittnacht, Mrs Sanders Maxwell, Mrs. Martin Katz, Mrs. Alan Tredennick, Mrs. Hector Griswold and Miss Dede Shipway.

BASKETBALL AWARD GIVEN

To Princeton High Captain. Ted Meredith, captain of the Princeton High School basketball squad, has been named recipient of the William D. Wolman Award for 1960. First presented in 1946, the honor is given annually to one member of the varsity team for outstanding play, sportsmanship and gentlemanly influence.

Meredith was elected by his coaches and teammates to receive the award. This season he averaged seven points per game, scoring a total of 126. His high totals included 12 points in a victory over Hightstown and 18 points against Ewing High School.

A transfer student from Bainbridge, Ohio, in his junior year, Meredith has played on Princeton's basketball and football teams for the past two seasons. Next fall he plans to enter Wake Forest College as a pre-dental student.

COACH AND CAPTAIN: Harry Zoll and Jack Lackey, leader of 1960 Princeton High School baseball team, are anticipating a successful season for the Little Tigers. Opener is April 19 against Trenton Catholic.

HUN NINE BOLSTERED

By Returning Veterans. Among the 25 players reporting to Hun baseball coach Squier Ball this Spring are nine who have played varsity ball for the Red and Black. Out of this experienced nucleus, Ball and his assistant, George Selleck, hope to fashion a team that will improve on last season's so-so 6-5 record.

Included in the returning veterans will be four Princetonians. They are Cary Grover, who held down the hot corner for Hun last year; Fred Andrew, pitcher, and outfielders Chris Farley and Lou Wilson. Others returning to the position they played last year are Paul Savage, catcher; Lou D'Ambrosio, second base; Paul Kadlic, shortstop; Bill Gilman, outfield; and Rick Gallaudet, pitcher.

A fine prospect for mound duty is Jay Maynell, a transfer student in his first year at Hun. No position has been definitely settled yet and Coach Ball has promised to do some experimenting before the opening game against Bryn Athyn on April 14.

The schedule: April 14, Bryn Athyn: 20, George School, away; 26, Tower Hill, away; 28, Germantown Friends; 30, Delbarton, away; May 2, Pennington Prep; 4, Solebury; 6, Bryn Athyn, away; 11, Peddie; 14, Delbarton; 18, Pingry, away; 20, Amiral Farragut; 25, Solebury, away.

BOWLING NOTES

New "Big Four Club" Member. Wilton Rose became eligible for the American Bowling Congress' "Big Four Club" when he converted the 4-8-7-10 split, known as "double pinochle" or "Big Four," in the Mixed League last week. It was the first time that this split has been made in league action at Princeton Recreation Center, according to proprietor Dave Burrough.

In other bowling action last week, the Rookies moved back into first place in the "A" loop by one point over Shelton Motors (51). Prince Laundro (38) broke a three-way tie to lead the "B" League by two games over Sportsmen No. 2 and Shelton Motors. In the Industrial loop, Tiger Garage held a six-point edge over Nassau Service and Wengryn Construction which were tied with 32 points each.

Tiger Bus continued to pace the Women's League with a three-point edge over Nassau Del (67). Tied for third place were Amron Homes and Cranbury Bank with 58 points each. Cifelli remained in the top spot in the Women's Industrial loop, leading Decker's Dairy (45) by five games. In the Mixed League, Henderson (22) was followed by Rose, Sculerati, Kleiber and Wheeler, all with 18 points.

Wilton Rose rolled the high game of the week with a 244 in the "B" loop. Other top scores included Bob Sculerati, 232; Joe Baldino, 204-227-196; Mike Pinelli, 224; Bill Pinelli, 223; Dick Edwards, 213; Tony Leiggi, 212; Ralph Firone, 211; Howard Meyhorter, 210; and Jack Lucey, 205, in the "B" League; Bill Kiefer, 226; George Wengryn, 221; Gilbert Ireland, 212; John Frazee, 211; Phil Wesp, 209; Nick Schulerati, 207; and Pete Homan, 200, in the Industrial League; and Bill Whatley, 203, in the "A" loop.

Marilyn Lowe shot the top women's score of the week with a 235 in the Women's Industrial League. She was followed by Marilyn Silvester, 199; Betty Frazee, 191; and Joan Dann, 186. Other high women's games included Diane Fugill, 187, in the Mixed League; and Sara Rose, 192; Marilyn Lowe, 188-181; Rachael Harris, 181; and Betty Kleiber, 180, in the Women's League.

FUZZY PEACHES, ANYONE?—

Part way down the middle of our showroom stands a Florentine push-eart piled so high with artificial fruit that pieces fall off with amazing regularity. Quite frankly, we haven't jumped to correct this situation. Seems that the friut might otherwise go unnoticed and once it has been demonstrated that it acually bounces and is practically indestructible, we have our foot in the door to say a few kind words on its behalf. The way the peaches are fuzzy, for instance—almost hairy.

Features that render real fruit undesirable are the very things that add realism and charm to these items. The grapes, for instance, are frosty and soft. And then, we have bruised bananas, apples with hallmarks and oranges with navels. This fruit is a great addition to our diverse gift line.

Essentially, though, our business is flowers. Fresh flowers. Flowers with smart styling. Flowers that stand out in a crowd . . . arranged to look as if we enjoyed our work. Which we do. We are devoted to our business, try to excell in it and aim to exemplify our slogan: "Flowers With a Flair."

Hope you'll stop in and get acquainted real soon. Find out who purchases these flowers, answers the phone, makes the arrangements, writes the ads, signs the cards, does the bookwork. We'd like to meet you, too. You're a customer and that makes you pretty special in our book.

P.S. Don't forget our famous dollar weekend specials.

Passover Plans Set

Passover, the Jewish "Festival of Freedom," will begin at sundown this Monday and continue for eight days, through Tuesday, April 19. Plans for celebration of the holiday are now being made in Jewish homes throughout the Princeton area.

The celebration will open with festival ritual meals, called Sedarim, to be held in Jewish homes on the first and second nights of Passover. All food with leaven in it is forbidden and bread is replaced by the unleavened cakes called Matzoh.

Passover commemorates the liberation 32 centuries ago of the Israilite slaves from Egyptian bondage. The foods eaten at the Sedarim are symbols of the Jews' departure from slavery and the message of the observance is that freedom should not be taken for granted.
